NEW PHILLIPS ACADEMY DORMITORY

Gift of $300,000 Makes Possible Paul Revere Hall—Rentals from New Dormitory to be Used to Establish a Teaching Foundation

The Trustees of Phillips Academy, Andover, have announced a gift of $300,000, to be used for the construction of a new dormitory, to be named "Paul Revere Hall". This building, the plans for which are now being made by Charles A. Platt of New York, is to be located in the rear of and parallel to the present Day Hall, near Salem street, and will form part of a secondary quadrangle, north of and adjacent to the main quadrangle. Ground will be broken for it in the near future, and it will be under way by the time of the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the school. on May 18 and 19, 1928. This dormitory is to be named after Paul Revere, in accordance with a policy adopted by the Board of Trustees of commemorating by buildings the names of distinguished men who have been associated with Phillips Academy, and of impressing upon the students by this method the tradition of patriotic service and devotion. Paul Revere, who was a friend of many of the founders and trustees of the school, designed and made the Phillips Academy seal which is in use today. Among the other buildings to make up the plan are George Washington Hall, named in honor of the first President of the United States, and dedicated in 1925; Samuel F. B. Morse Hall, the new scientific building, named after the school's most distinguished graduate in the field of science, and now nearly completed; and the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, to be named for Oliver Wendell Holmes of the class of 1825, sketches for which have already been drawn and the erection of which will begin in the spring of 1928.

In accordance with the wishes of the donor, whose name is, for the present, withheld, the additional income derived from the rental of rooms in the new dormitory, will be used, in part, to establish the second of a series of teaching foundations, providing a salary of $8,000 for each incumbent. This new foundation, which has not yet been named, has been awarded, by vote of the Trustees, to Allen Rogers Benner, Professor of Greek at Phillips Academy since 1892. Professor Benner's long service as a teacher, joined with his distinction as a classical scholar, entitle him to the honor thus conferred upon him. The far-reaching plan, of which this is a phase, contemplates the establishment of ten such foundations, paying $8,000 each. Of these, one, called the Alfred L. Ripley Foundation, has already been established, and assigned to Professor Charles H. Forbes; the second has now been given to Professor Benner; a third, to be called the Cecil F. P. Bancroft Foundation, is under way; and a fourth will shortly be announced. It is expected that, before the date of the Sesquicentennial celebration, the entire project will be rounded out, and Phillips Academy will then have the proposed ten foundations, aggregating $1,600,000.

WONDER OF OCEAN DEPTHS

William Beebe Discovers New World Below Sea Level. Inhabited by Strange and Interesting Creatures.

It is said that truth is oftentimes stranger than fiction, and this was well demonstrated last Friday evening at the lecture given by William Beebe, noted scientist and author, of New York who spoke at George Washington hall, Phillips Academy, on his discoveries of life under the ocean depths.

His place of exploration has been in the Sargasso sea, famed in legend as the place of lost ships, and comparatively unknown. An expedition to Haiti, organized by Mr. Beebe, has brought to light not only the fallacy of some of the tales of this Middle Atlantic zone, but also has revealed some most interesting facts about sea life there.

Mr. Beebe does not claim to be an intrepid adventurer, but merely an interested viewer of life not common to everyday eyes. He said in his lecture, or rather, informal talk, that anyone could do what he has done, if one is eager enough to venture.

He said he first thought of going down into the sea depths, while he was flying through the air, as the latter experience showed up so much that was new and strange. He therefore fitted himself out with a diving suit, but said that it was so unwieldy that if he had to wear it in his sub-oceanic travels he wouldn't go at all. Then he bought a head helmet and this is all the covering he uses except an ordinary bathing suit and rubber shoes. The weight of the helmet is not great after being immersed in the water, but heavy enough to keep him down.

What Mr. Beebe found in the ocean depths to the extent of ten fathoms, which is about as deep as a man can go and stay for any length of time, was illustrated in stereopticon slides and moving pictures.

Luminous and brightly colored fishes, some blind but with feelers for eyes; waving sea plants beautifully colored, which are not plants at all, but are really forms of animal life; strange monsters with appendages that are almost human were shown on the screen and illustrated the fact that the many wonders of Nature are not confined to the land alone, but are found also in the depths of the sea.

Mr. Beebe said that the fishes in the ocean depths were entirely unafraid, and would come to within three inches of his head helmet.

The stories of sharks, he said were often exaggerated, and he illustrated this by a story of being down on the ocean bed with two of these monsters swimming near him without offering to molest him. He went on to say, however, that when his partners up in the boat above threw down a hook and bait, and a fish grabbed it and then tried to get away from the hook, the other fishes

BOY SCOUT DRIVE FOR ANDOVER

Committee Seeks $2,000 to Carry on Activities Including Camping Center for Andover's Seven Troops Which Are Already Well Organized

Fine progress has been made in extending scouting influence to more boys in Andover. During the coming week, men interested in the welfare of boys in the community will solicit for funds to carry on the scout work here. It is desired to establish a camping center and erect a building where all scout-leaders and boys can be given the privilege of camping. To this end the Andover District Committee need the sum of $2,000.

During the past year, since a definite organization has been established, the accomplishments of scouting have been many. Many prominent men have identified themselves with scouting, and the scouts have given service by searching for lost people, planting trees, and performing many individual good turns. During this period four new troops have been organized. Scouting is now identified in Shawsheen Village, one troop, Free Church, one troop, Saint Augustine's, three troops, South Church, one troop, and Christ Church, one troop. Andover is now nearly one hundred per cent organized. Boys are having the advantage of this program which is being made possible through the unselfish leadership which is being given by the committeemen and scoutmasters.

Everyone, no doubt, realizes the great influence and help that scouting is in giving boys an opportunity to get a different version of life, a willingness to serve without receiving tips for this service, giving them the benefit of fellowship through an organization which has high ideals of achievement and a definite thought in those things that help to develop moral fibre for good manhood and citizenship. The boys are taught to do useful things, to come in closer contact with nature, God, and man. The companionship of man is what boys most desire as boys look to their elders as ideals, and pattern their lives after those who set a good example. They have in the Scout Oath and Law a definite obligation and when becoming a member of scouting they promise on their honor to do their duty to God and their country, to help others at all times, and keep themselves physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight, and their twelve laws bind them upon their honor to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean, and reverent.

Scouting is non-sectarian, non-political, and non-military, and is for all boys who have reached the age of twelve.

Today scouting in America is the biggest boys organization in the world. Scouting is now a world brotherhood. Training

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE

"Rose-Marie" the lovable little lady of the Canadian Rockies will return to the BOSTON OPERA HOUSE for an engagement of two weeks only, beginning Monday evening, October 31st, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

"Rose-Marie" will be found to be just as piquant and charming as she was on her previous visit and though you've whistled, sung and danced to "Rose-Marie," "Indian Love Call," "Totem Tom Tom," "Why Shouldn't We," "The Door of My Dreams" and other melodic gems found in the Friml and Stothart score, you will find them in the present offering just as intriguing as they were before, for Mr. Hammerstein has provided another excellent cast that includes — Beulah Berson, Paul Donah, Hazel Gaudreau Charles Meakins, Peggy Pates, Houston Richards, Daisy Gibson, Sano Marco, Ross Gibson, Neil Moore and the same large chorus that continues to create unbounded enthusiasm with their singing and sensational dancing.

The story of "Rose-Marie" is as delightful and refreshing as it was in its first telling and you follow the little Canadian lass from Kootenay Pass to the final curtain in the rose-covered cottage with enthusiasm and rejoice with her when she is united with her lover.

You will again find that the company and the production is worthy of this musical writing, the scenic equipment is new as are the costumes and the whole production looks like it was headed for its New York premier.

We have become so accustomed to the girlified and glorified chorus that it is refreshing to see the he-man stut his stuff in the colorful and manly uniforms of the heroic Northwestern Mounted Police and to hear their robust and splendid voices.

"Rose-Marie" is a notable addition to the stage history of the decade. It supplies genuine and wholesome entertainment and is well worth anyone's attention.

WILBUR THEATRE

The appearance of Ethel Barrymore in "The Constant Wife" which comes to the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, Oct. 31st, will give local audiences an apportunity to see this most popular of American actresses in one of the happiest roles of her career. The combination of Gilmer Miller's management and a smart new comedy from the pen of the English playwright and novelist, W. Somerset Maugham, has proved such a fortunate one that Miss Barrymore, if she so desired, could probably go on playing "The Constant Wife," indefinitely.

Many letters and queries from members of her large audiences at Maxine Elliot's Theatre, New York, during the year's run have convinced Miss Barrymore that the particular problem of her new play has intrigued all classes of playgoers. The marked curiosity concerning the solution of the predicament in which Constance, "The Constant Wife" — finds herself — a predicament at once comic and pathetic — seems to have added as much to the wide appeal of the comedy as the brilliant witticisms with which it is sprinkled and the searching comment on modern marriage inherent in its amusing situations.

While W. Somerset Maugham has been widely known for many plays which have had success in America, he is perhaps most often remembered in connection with "The Circle," a brilliant comedy of marriage, and his part in the dramatic version of "Rain," which was based on one of his short stories. On only one occasion before the present play has he provided a role for Miss Barrymore, whose talents for comedy seem so adroitly fitted to his own dialogue and point of view. That was "Lady Frederick," which the star played under Charles Frohman's management several years ago.

With Miss Barrymore in "The Constant Wife" will be the same expert cast which made the comedy one of the reigning successes of the season.

REPERTORY THEATRE

The first Shakespearean production of the season at the Repertory Theatre will come next Monday evening, when "As You Like It" will be acted for the first time there. This comedy shows Shakespeare's poetic and dramatic skill at its highest, his inventive faculty at its best, and his powers of character creation at their strongest. With its romantic and sylvan atmosphere, its plot wherein is told the love story of Rosalind and Orlando, "As You Like It", has lived through three centuries of the stage, and it still possesses the spirit of to-day as well as of yesterday.

With the exception of the first act, all the scenes of "As You Like It" are in the Forest of Arden, and thence come Orlando and Rosalind, Celia and Touchstone, there to take part in the delightful sequence of incidents that involve love, romance and mystery. Nothing can be more appealing to the eye than these woodland scenes, and where in Shakespeare can be found more delicious episodes than those between the two lovers, with Rosalind masquerading as a boy, and Orlando unaware of her identity with the girl he loves. Rosalind ranks high among Shakespeare's heroines, and none excel her in romantic fantasy.

The stage settings for the Repertory Theatre production will be from designs by Jonel Jorgulesco, and it will be staged under the personal direction of Henry Jewett. The cast will include Forbes Dawson as Orlando, Arthur Bowyer as Adam, William Faversham, Jr. as Oliver, May Ward as Celia, Olga Birkbeck as Rosslind, Dennis Cleugh as Touchstone, Thayer Roberts as Duke Frederick, William Mason Duke Senior, Henry Jewett as Jaques, Thomas Shearer as Corin and Adelaide George as Phebe.

Former Choir Leader Honored By Free Church People

The choir of the Free church visited Wilmington last week and paid an unannounced visit to their former choir leader, Gerald F. Frazee. It was hardly a surprise, although intended for such, but one of those little things that crop up gave the show away. The visitors, however, were given a cordial welcome and with the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Frazee had a merry time.

Plans were talked over relative to the possibility of two musical vesper services by the combined choirs of the Congregational church at Auburndale, where Mr. Frazee is now director of music, and the Free church. The program would include several of the best works of church music writers.

Mr. Frazee entertained with a number of selections on the pipe organ in his home; there were a number of songs sung and general community singing. Musical gmaes were also played. During a lull in the festivities, G. A. Christie in behalf of the choir and in appreciation of the great service rendered music by Mr. Frazee while director at the Free church, presented Mr. Frazee with three volumes: Vincent D'Indy's "Life of Cesar Franck;" Schweitzer's "Life of Bach" and H. F. Fink's "My Golden Memories." Mr. Frazee, in acknowledging the testimonial, spoke of the pleasant three years spent in harmonious work with the Free church choir, and expressed a hope that the relations might be continued in cooperation with his Auburndale choir.

Since assuming the post of choir director at Auburndale, Mr. Frazee has organized a junior choir and a volunteer choir and made other improvements in the musical services. He has recently been appointed director of music of the Auburndale Woman's Club and of the Lasell Glee Club.

A buffet lunch of chicken patties, green peas, potato chips, ice cream, cake, coffee and candy was served by Mrs. Frazee, assisted by Mrs. Alfred R. Harris and Miss Bessie Coutts. The gathering parted to meet again after singing "Auld Lang Syne."

Those present were: Misses Bessie Coutts, Sadie MacLeish, Jessie Bissett, Elizabeth Valentine, Evelyn Mayer, Etta Brown, Emma Stevens, George M. Knipe, Murdo Wallace, Lewis Paine, John MacLeish, Robert Dobbie, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. William Crowe, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Christie, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Frazee.

Hold Bakery Sale

A successful bakery sale was held by the Andover Mothers' club last Friday afternoon in the vestry of the Baptist church.

Many delicious food stuffs besides baked beans were on sale and a large number of people patronized the sale.

The committee in charge was: Mrs. Edward C. Cole, chairman; Mrs. George York and Mrs. Alexander Crockett.

The sale was held to help swell the funds of the Mothers' club, whose interest is devoted to child and family welfare work.

Y. P. F. Holds Hallowe'en Party and Dance

Hallowe'en games and decorations gave color to the party and dance held by the Young People's Fellowship in Christ Church parish house on Tuesday evening.

A "ghost walk" full of horrors led the guests to the parish house where games were played and dancing was enjoyed with Malcolm Lundgren at the piano. Card tables were arranged in the Guild room for those who cared to play.

Refreshments of doughnuts and cider were served.

Those who arranged the party were Mrs. Oran Sheppard, Miss Mary Cole, Miss Shirley McKee. Claxton Monro, and John Hilton.

Bowling Matches at Essex Street Alleys

The Marland Mills bowling team defeated the Essex team Monday evening on the Essex alleys in the Industrial league. Tuesday night the Essex team took another match from the Tyer 2 team. Tyer 1 team also lost on Tuesday night to the Clerks. Tuesday evening, W. Hyde led with 109 for high single and J. Davidson had 301 for high triple. Monday night Raymond Lefebvre had high single 106 and tied P. Stewart with 296 for high triple. Unusual interest has been shown in the industrial league so far this season and all indications point to a successful bowling year. The scores:

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN
Looking Back Twenty-five Years

David Leslie has purchased two houses in Abbott Village.

The new organ for St. Augustine's church has arrived and will be installed as soon as possible.

George R. Caldwell is building a very attractive summer house for John L. Brewster on Locke street.

Rev. Frank R. Shipman will speak on Labor Unions and Their Relation to the Public at next Sunday morning's service.

A beautiful full blown rose from the garden of Mrs. James N. Smart picked October 21, and another fragrant beauty from George A Christie's garden October 23, show that Jack Frost spared a few blossoms when he made his visit the other night.

Mrs. H. C. Snow of Boston gave a delightful luncheon to a party of lady friends at the Phillips Inn, Thursday noon. The private dining-room was beautifully decorated with cut flowers. Guests were present including Mrs. Walter Buck, Mrs. Amos Blanchard, Mrs. Charles H. Forbes, Miss Alice Buck and Miss Ellen Snow. The dining-room, which has as yet been used only a few times, brought forth expressions of approval and pleasure from the guests. An excellent menu was served under the personal direction of Mrs. C. T. Ripley.

The Board of Registrars met last Friday night at the Town Clerk's office and added the following names from Precinct, 1; Frederick A. Baldwin, James B. Carrie, Granville K. Cutler, William S. Maguire, and John Sweeney.

The annual fall reunion and reception to strangers was held by the South church at the vestry last evening with a good attendance. An evening of sociability was enjoyed and light refreshments served. An orchestra composed of Misses Alice and Charlotte Cox and Miss Ella Holt and Edward R. Foster, Roy Lindsay and Stanley Pratt played from eight to ten o'clock. The social was in charge of the Woman's Union.

There is to be a service in Frye Village hall next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, conducted by the pastor of the Free church.

Next Sunday will be the twentieth anniversary of the ordination of Rev. Frederick A. Wilson, and his morning sermon will specially commemorate that event.

The Free church is greatly encouraged in its plans for building a new house of worship by the recent gift of $10,000 from one of its loyal friends.

Edwin G. Booth, formerly at the Second Baptist church, Lawrence, and recently organist and chorimaster at St. Mary's Episcopal church, Newton Center, has been appointed organist and choirmaster at the Free church.

Andover people are many of them wondering about the Town hall improvements and looking forward eagerly toward the opening so that they may see whether the $8500 appropriated at the last town meeting has been expended to advantage or not. The hall may be called new for several reasons; firstly on account of its new, simple and quiet but very attractive decorations; secondly, owing to the new hardwood floor, a delightful innovation to all who have ever attempted to use the old floor for dancing purposes; thirdly, because of the new and improved lichting arrangements whereby the centre chandelier has been done away with and four smaller chandeliers arranged for either gas or electricity substituted one in each corner; fourthly and lastly, and by a great many regarded as the best change of all, on account of the renovated, or perhaps it would be more correct to say, remodelled stage. The anterooms have likewise come in for some attention and the kitchen is now very conveniently fitted with stove and gas range, besides running water, sink, shelves and closets . The floor of the lobby is a mosaic with the town seal in colors in the middle. The hallways and vestibules are sheathed and the wainscoting panelled in oak. A highly ornamental arch of carved oak spans the passage to the rear hall while the frieze is also of oak. The Town clerk will now be located at the right of the entrance, the barber shop on the front of the building and the old office being merged into a light commodious room with doors opening in from the street and hallway. A small private office is intended for the private use of the Town clerk and is located at the right of the main entrance. In the other corner on the same side is a larger private office also enclosed in glass for the selectmen. At the rear of the room the Town treasurer's desk will be separated from the main office by grill work. Opposite the Town clerk's office on the other side of the vestibule the Board of Public Works office is still located. The Superintendent of School's office and school committee's room are now on the south side of the building where some sun can be obtained. Opening off the superintendent's office is a small room for the storage of books and supplies. The committee composed of John N. Cole, J. W. Barnard and E. W. Pitman certainly deserve the thanks of the town for their unceasing efforts and generous expenditure of time, while to the architect, Perley F. Gilbert, also belongs much credit. The workmen employed in the remodelling of the hall were as follows: Hardy & Cole, carpentry; Joyce Brothers, Lawrence, cells and plastering; F. E. Dodge, concreting and vault; W. A. Morton, Haverhill, decorating hall, passageway, offices; H. C. Hitchcock, plain painting; A. W. Caldwell, hardwood finishing of halls and passages; W. H. Welch, steam; George Saunders, plumber; Henry Newman, graining; Briggs & Allyn, Lawrence, stair work, plate glass and doors; Murdock Parlor Grate company, mosaic pavement.

Miss Ruby Jackson was pleasantly surprised by her Sunday school class last Tuesday evening at her home on Maple avenue.

The Andover Mother's club held a father's night on Monday evening at the John I ove kindergarten rooms on Bartlet street. Rev. Mr. Keedy of Walpole spoke on the boy from five to fifteen years of age. Perley F. Gilbert gave a very amusing sketch written by a member of his family. It started by his presenting an imaginary picture of a beautiful infant to the gathering and placing it in view of all. Mr. Gilbert's realism caused a great craning of necks but nothing was to be seen. Another very enjoyable number on the program was the vocal duet by Mrs. C. W. Scott and Miss Mary Richards. The committee of arrangements was composed of the following: Mrs. Stiles, Mrs. Whittemore, Mrs. Karcher, Mrs. Tyler and Mrs. Payne.

The first grand assembly of the newly organized Young Men's Catholic Temperance society of Andover was held in Pilgrim hall. Musgrove Block, on Wednesday evening. The committee of arrangements was composed of John McDonald, chairman, J. J. Daly and Patrick Barrett. The aides were Stewart Stack, Joseph Murphy, Martin J. Doherty, Michael Brennan, Frank McDonald and Wiliam McDonald. The club now numbers thirty-three members and the object of the dance was to help raise funds to pay for the furnishings of the club room in Musgrove.

The scholars of St. Augustine's Sunday school held a reception for Rev. D. J. O'Mahoney last Sunday after Sunday school. In their behalf, little Clarence O'Connell presented Fr. O'Mahoney with a gold pyx case and oil stock.

Girl's Friendly Holds Card Party

The members of the committee in charge were, Alexina Harris, Ruth Saunders, Doris Hilton, Anne Swenson and Alice Wrigley.

Refreshments of punch and assorted cakes were served by the committee.

Stowe 25 — Reading 0

The Stowe School team easily defeated the Reading High Juniors in the preliminary game of Johnson and Reading high, at Reading Saturday.

The local team outclassed their opponents throughout the entire game, showing at all times great speed and skill.

The juniors kicked off to the local team and the Andover boys proceeded to rush the ball down the field. On each play they gained considerable ground. Gouck made a long end run and made the first touchdown. After the next kick-off the locals were on their way to the line again when the whistle sounded the end of the period.

In the second quarter the Reading team showed a little more fight and the locals were unable to score. The period ended with the score remaining 6 to 0 for Andover.

The whistle blew for the renewal of the game at the half and the Andover team tramped down the field for two more touchdowns, one by Reed and one by Gouck. Reed kicked one goal making the score 19 to 0 at the end of the third half.

Gallant Held for Grand Jury

John J. Gallant, 57 years old, of County road, was arraigned before Judge Colver J. Stone in Andover police court Monday afternoon on serious attack charges and was bound over to the January sitting of the Essex County Grand jury.

Gallant was arrested by Officer Stevens of Andover police and a state officer Sunday, October 16, as the result of complaints made by two young women who are said to have charged that Gallant attacked them while they were strolling through the woods on the Old Mill road. He was charged with indecent exposure, assault with criminal intent, and lewd and lascivious conduct.

Attorney Harry R. Lawrence was counsel of the young women and Attorney Joseph L. Burns for the defense. The court set the bail at $5,000 which was not forthcoming. After spending the night in the Andover lock-up, Gallant was taken to the Lawrence jail.

It's HALLOWE'EN Again!

Once again it's Hallowe'en when even the birds and cats forget and dance a laughing beat. When young and old, big and little, play again. And what a time awaits all at the Hallowe'en parties: Ducking for apples, pinning the tail on the donkey, the doughnut contests, yes, the good old games that never grow old. And after the games and the singing and the always-looked-forward-to forfeits, comes the luncheon.

Mother and sister are too busy arranging the home for the guests to do any baking, so the 20th CENTURY Bakery is doing it for them. Tomorrow at your grocer's you will find 20th CENTURY Sponge Cake, creamy 20th CENTURY Doughnuts, and for the sandwiches the ever-dependable—

Communication

To the Editor of the Townsman:

I am confident that I express the feeling of a rapidly growing majority of Andover's taxpayers when I thank you for your timely protest against the present policy and consequent cost of maintaining our public schools.

It is high time that the present so-called "Educational Trend" be duly appraised and its issue squarely faced.

A departure along educational lines began here in Andover some ten years ago and has gone forward cumulatively year by year and, unless checked, bids fair to absorb the larger part of our town income and thus either rob other town departments of needed revenue or else handicap the town by a high tax rate and an increasing town debt.

During these last ten years the tax payers of Andover have paid for the maintenance of her schools over $1,065,030 besides $340,000 for two new school buildings.

While her phenomenal increase in valuation has been 111½% during this period her increase in school expenses has jumped 151% — from $60,000 to $139,000 and, so far from showing any sign of stabilization, every sign points to a larger increase year by year. The Superintendent warns us of this fact and in nearly every report seeks to smooth the way to it. He frankly acknowledges that "the cost per pupil is higher in Andover than the average in the state" but what the present cost per pupil is he judiciously avoids stating. Previous to 1918, — the year the new school house was completed — our school reports gave detailed cost per pupil and per $1000 of taxable property but all subsequent reports are conspicious for their absence of all detail expenses.

Since 1918 the cost for schools has sprung forward by leaps and bounds increasing $32,000 in two years.

The reason for this, our Superintendent tells us, is the "general educational trend". He acknowledges that the cost is "immense" but assures us it will be more. He recommends that we build a new school house and a new gymnasium and furnish new equipments and "machinery" such as "a power-lathe, a printing outfit, and a jeweller's outfit" for the High School. His supervisor tells us "with this outfit we would be able to offer carpentry, pattern-making, wood-turning, printing and jewelling construction". He further tells us that "for the pupil who does not care for wood work we plan to give work in electricity, such as splicing wires, wiring door bells, wiring lamps made in the shop and elementary house-wiring. This year we taught painting and actual work in strapping, lathing, plastering, putting on wall-paper, glazing, house wiring, paper hanging, inside finishing, etc. Some pupils bring in furniture from home to be repaired and pans to be soldered," and he hopes "in the near future that we may equip a part of the basement under the school for an auto-repair shop."

To accomplish all this he asks for new tools and a larger share of school time. Throughout all the reports there is an increasing demand for more room. space and more tools and more time for hand-work, All this the Superintendent tells us is in line with this new "Educational Trend."

It is thus apparent that whatever this "Trend" may be or whither it may lead it means "expansion" all along the line. Our school "expands" into new departments and each department "expands" to its limits. The Home Economic Department already has so expanded that "it touches every subject relating to the home, such as food, dress and home-making budgets" and it asks for a new sewing machine, electric iron and ironing board". Likewise the school nurse expands her wants. She wishes a "Physical Culture Teacher to correct the postures of children," and "hot lunches for seventy-five children because (and here let the miserly tax payer shed tears) of increasing tendency for children to scramble from bed in the morning at too late an hour to enable them to eat the necessary amount of breakfast." But we are assured that this costly expansion has just begun; it is still in swaddling clothes: "Many conditions financial and otherwise hinder the full development of plans."

But to prevent some of us tax payers from heart-failure over this "Educational Trend" he assures us that: "it is not the intention of the committee (committee of one) to establish purely vocational training." It greatly heartens us, who value brain-power above diamonds and who believe its possession fits a boy or girl to master life's problems more than all other combined acquisitions, to know that some small fraction of the money and time spent in instructing our youth here in Andover is to continue to be devoted to the development of their brains as well as to the development of the skill of their hands. Wisdom will not die when some of our modern psychologists cease to function. Their most recent wisdom as published in "Behaviorism" shows to what fool-lengths they can go. Let us not surrender our common sense to these so-called "experts in education".

BOY SCOUT DRIVE

courses, rallies, patrol leaders and scribe meetings and conferences are held for the benefit of all connected with scouting that they may have further training in this work. This can only be carried on by the loyal financial support of citizens of the community. A boy well-trained is worth millions to any community or nation. A boy who has received the benefit of scout training is a different type from other boys. He is being prepared for the most worthwhile things in life. What is a live American boy worth? It is right to say that boys are the most valuable asset of a nation but many times we may doubt it. Boys who are taught in youth to do the right thing are a help and not a menace to the community in manhood.

Scouting is the man in the boy reaching out to the boy in the man. In the pioneer days father and son worked side by side, clearing the forest and hewing the logs for homes, hunting and fishing. Today, what is lacking between father and son is a mental understanding, and a quantity and quality of hardihood that had a real moral value to both. They were hard as nails, and in their vigorous manhood were not led into insipid pleasures. The father who wants to see his sons or boys develop that vigor and fibre of manhood that is most desired must give as much attention to his out-of-door life as to his scholastic education. MEN WHO TOOK SCOUT LEADERSHIP COURSE

Scouting trains boys in all types of woodcraft, and instead of setting forest fires, scouts fight these fires. They learn to cook in the open, hike, camp, sleep, care for themselves in the open. They know how to bandage an injured person, apply a tourniquet to help save a life, and are constantly endeavoring to put into practice their good training. For example: — There were two boys in a family, one twelve years old and the other fourteen. The younger boy was a member of a scout troop and the fourteen-year-old boy was always jesting with him because of his membership in scouting. But his brother advanced in scouting from his tenderfoot rank to second class scout and then to a first-class scout. While he progressed through these various stages, it was necessary that he know how to apply first-aid. These boys lived on the farm of their parents and one morning the father and mother left the boys to glaze the roof of the greenhouse while they went to town, the father to sell his produce and the mother to shop. While the boys were working on the greenhouse, the older boy slipped and fell through the glass and severed an artery in his thigh. His young brother, who was a scout, and had a knowledge of first-aid saw that his brother was bleeding to death and quickly removed him to the house. He applied a tourniquet and called the doctor. The doctor came, dressed the wound, and made the older boy comfortable, and when the parents returned he told them that their young son had saved the life of his brother. This is just one of the many thousands of services performed by scouts. The national organization awards each year a medal for the most heroic deed performed by a scout. Boy Scouts are constantly saving the lives of others from drowning and in many other ways applying the training they receive.

adept at some woodcraft, learn the art of axemanship and other outdoor crafts. Enjoy an occasional trip with an evening before the campfire and the boy and father will have an opportunity to discover each other. Scouting will give man a new enthusiasm and usefulness, make man and boy chums, and make life more worthwhile.

Fellow citizen, it is worthwhile, and we earnestly solicit your help in this great cause. Help us to achieve our goal of $2,000.

SCOUTS MAKING A CAMP FIRE

SCOUT ANNIVERSARY AT METHUEN

Phillips Academy Notes

For the past few days, Mr. Moorehead has been slightly ill, and, although he is now well on the road to recovery, his condition Tuesday night would not permit him to deliver his scheduled lecture on "The Indians of the Painted Desert Region and Exploring in the Southwest." The date for this talk has been postponed until next Tuesday night, November 1st.

On Saturday afternoon Dr. Stearns attended a meeting at Amherst College of the Board of Trustees, to which he was recently elected a member. Dr. Stearns' grandfather, William Augustus Stearns, was president of Amherst from 1854 to 1876, and he is himself a graduate of this college.

The Chicago Crusade

Six years ago it was New York. Now it is Chicago. Then the late unlamented Mayor John F. Hylan devoted reams of rhetoric to the denunciation of the school textbooks which he alleged would besmirch American traditions and sully the glory of the men who founded the American republic. He designated his commissioner of accounts, Mr. David Hirschfield, to scrutinize the readers and other textbooks of history in use in the public schools and to apply the proper disinfectants with a view to their complete fumigation. The commissioner was to set history straight with one swoop and to designate the perfect and "safe" text with another. It would be dead easy. Let the historians sweat year after year to ascertain the truth. Mr. Hylan's appointee would see to it that nothing contaminating should come into contact with the minds of the pupils in the public schools.

That New York episode looked like "the limit." But it wasn't. What Mayor Thompson is doing in Chicago makes the former mayor of New York look like a tyro in the great game of bluster and pose. That eminent scholar and all-round authority on books and especially on history books, Mr. "Sport" Herrmann, will explore the alcoves of the Chicago Public Library, yank out the volumes that are dangerous to the citizenship, and burn them on the lake front. If that is done, if books that offend under the definitions of Mayor Thompson actually are carried away from the huge storehouse of literature, Mr. Herrmann will have a pile to burn as big as the tallest pyramid of barrels ever consumed on the night before the Fourth anywhere round Massachusetts Bay, and the bonfire will be contemplated with amazement and guffaws by all the world, including the sane and intelligent part of the population of Chicago.

The job must be done in a hurry, too. Mayor Thompson is not the sort of man to tolerate delay when the purity of citizenship and the safety of the reading public are imperilled. The safety of the city is at stake. They may find not only "King George" but a whole army of British soldiers concealed amidst the stacks. Mr. "Sport" Herrmann probably will have to scan the pages of such historians as Hildreth, Channing, Justin Winsor, and Woodrow Wilson in some one forenoon. Then he could devote an afternoon to Fiske, to the scores of works on Franklin, and to the hundred biographies of Washington. If he is willing to work outside union hours he might put in an evening making sure that Trevelyan's History of the American Revolution is "sound". On second thought, however, we fancy he will not read more than the title page of that celebrated work. "Trevelyan!" he will exclaim. "Who is Trevelyan?" And when he finds out that Trevelyan is an English scholar who had the audacity to write on the war for independence, he will forthwith order all copies of that work to be loaded aboard the truck and started for the pyre on the water front.

When has America witnessed a more ridiculous performance? Many school textbooks are probably inadequate. Many half-baked books are in the libraries all over this land and all others where there are libraries. No perfect book ever has been written, nor will be until human abilities are perfected. The one ameliorating item in the situation is that truth cannot be suppressed indefinitely. The Chicago episode may do more than appeal to the humor of the nation. It may produce sober thought as to what our school books ought to be and what our libraries ought to contain — The Boston Herald.

Editorial Cinder

In the absence of a Y. M. C. A. or a Boys' Club, Andover must depend entirely on its Boy Scout Movement for the healthful recreation and training which these organizations give to boys. Our scouts have an especially ambitious program this year. Having already cleaned and partly reforested Carmel Woods, they now wish to build a small camp there. To do this, and at the same time maintain their organization, will require about two thousand dollars. No one who is familier with the fine work being done by this organization for Andover's boys will withhold his moral or financial support. Mr. Chester W. Holland is treasurer of the campaign committee.

Joint Faculty Recital

Major musical events continue to emanate from Abbot Academy. The second faculty recital of the season will take place in Davis Hall on Tuesday night at eight o'clock.

This recital will be one of the two annual concerts in which members of the music faculty combine forces to present music in a variety of aspects. These recitals really offer a rather wide range of interest as each artist brings to his performance his own individuality and peculiar characteristics. Moreover, these recitals are always carefully prepared so that an Andover audience may expect an adequate and distinguished performance.

The artists taking part in this concert will be Miss Marie Nichols, violinist, Miss Kate Friskin, pianist, Harrison Potter, pianist, and Walter Edward Howe, organist.

The public is cordially invited to share this concert with the school. No admission will be charged.

Veteran Ballard Vale Fire Horse Dies

"Sam," veteran fire horse, who has been in the service of the Town of Andover for more than a score of years died shortly after six o'clock Saturday morning in his stall at the fire station in Ballardvale. Sam has been stationed at the Ballardvale house for sixteen years and during that time has answered all alarms in that section with his mate Jerry who has served there nineteen years. They have been cared for by John Haggerty, veteran fireman, who has served as driver in Ballardvale for thirty-four years and who has been a member of the department for forty years.

Both horses were very active in their old age. They worked Friday and Sam appeared in good spirits Friday evening when he ate supper and later when Mr. Haggerty bedded him for the night. Mr. Haggerty was in bed about one half hour when he was obliged to go to the horse's assistance. He called a veterinarian and later left the faithful old animal supposedly comfortable for the night. Early Saturday morning when Mr. Haggerty went to feed his old friends he found Sam near death and he breathed his last at 6.15. The passing of Sam leaves his mate Jerry, as the last surviving fire horse in Andover.

Local Talent to Give Concert at Fireman's Ball

Plans are being made for the Andover Fireman's annual ball which is to be held on Thanksgiving Eve. The firemen hope to make this fifty-sixth annual ball, the most successful they have ever held. The firemen are canvassing the town with tickets every evening. Local talent has been secured for the concert. Miss Roxie Smith, a local school teacher, Miss Sadie McLeish, John Hill, the well known tenor, and J. Everett Collins, the well known baritone will furnish the evening's entertainment. The concert will be from eight until nine o'clock followed by dancing until midnight with music furnished by the Balmoralians ten-piece orchestra. The committee in charge is: Edward Buchan, chairman, Alex MacKenzie, treasurer; Kerr Sparks, Frank McBride and Ralph Baker.

New Superintendent of Guild Chosen

Miss Margaret Davis of Wilmington, Delaware has been chosen as superintendent of the Andover Guild and will assume her new duties about November 1.

Since April, 1926, Miss Davis has been assistant director of community service in the city of Wilmington, and leaves that position to come to Andover. She has also been director of girls' activities at St. Mary's, Pennsylvania.

She took a four-year course at Ward Belmont, Nashville, Tennessee, a four-year course at Peabody College of Teachers, receiving her degree of B.S. in 1922 at Nashville, Tennessee. Two summers she has taken the course given by the Playground Recreation Association of America; in 1922 at Chicago, and in 1926 at Bear Mountain, New York.

She has organized and directed athletics, adult clubs, children's clubs, athletics, folk dancing, games, and gymnasium work, field meets, industrial picnics, neighborhood parties, ukulele and harmonica classes, leagues and tournaments, playground contests and exhibits, and has had special training in the activities of Camp Fire Girls, community singing, industrial work, pageantry, sewing and story-telling.

The services of Miss Davis have been secured by the Guild committee after weeks of careful consideration of candidates. With an attractive personality, thorough training and experience and a great enthusiasm for her work the committee feels that that they have secured a superintendent for the Guild who will be a successful leader in an interesting and helpful program for the coming year.

Kate and James Friskin in Memorabla Recital

The first concert of the season, in the Samuel Morse Downs Course, took place at Abbot Academy on Thursday night before a large audience. The concert was a recital of two-piano music given by Kate Friskin of the music department of Abbot Academy, and James Friskin of the music department of the Institute of Musical Art in New York. The same concert, with one change, was given by them in Jordan hall, Boston, on the previous night. Both artists are pianists of rich experience and outstanding attainment. Both of them have been heard at Abbot Academy as solo performers; therefore their combined effort afforded rare interest and illumination. A two-piano recital is a combination which offers many formidable difficulties. It presupposes complete familiarity between the artists in their art, and an approach to the works in hand that must be absolutely as one. Mr. and Miss Friskin fulfilled these qualifications admirably, their ensemble was very fine, and their interpretations deeply felt and artistically conceived.

James and Kate Friskin are technically equipped to play anything in the literature of the piano. Small wonder then that their performance of the Brahms Variations on a Theme by Haydn should have been the feature of the recital. Both the Friskins are devout admirers of Brahms music and play it with a conviction such as one seldom hears. Though less grateful as piano music than as orchestral, the Ravel La Valse offered them wonderful pianist opportunities which they met brilliantly. It was a concert of superlatives!

The program:

Sonata in D major — Mozart
Allegro con spirito
Andante
Allegro molto

Variations on a theme by Haydn — Brahms
"Moy Mell" (The Pleasant Plain) — Bax
La Valse — Ravel
Suite — Arensky
Romance

TALKS ON DEEP SEA LIFE

would literally tear the prisoner to pieces. He witnessed a bloody battle at this same time, occasioned by his companion in the boat throwing over a large piece of meat for bait. One of the sharks seized the meat and began tugging at the line. The other shark immediately became "possessed of a devil" and went for the first tearing at it, and aided by other sea monsters battled it to death. The denizens of the deep have no quality of mercy; they want only the fittest to survive, and all others must fall prey to their killing instincts.

The lecture was attended by students of Phillips and Abbot academies and a large number of townspeople who filled the hall. Mr. Beebe was introduced by Dr. C. M. Fuess in the absence of Dr. Stearns.

Guild Notes

Everyone has probably heard the joke of the successful man, who said: "Yes, I came from a small town, I came as fast as I could."

Fiction often tells us that Main street is a burying ground for capabilities and talents.

But facts prove that the small town and the small city are vindicating themselves and are rapidly making themselves places in which one can not only make a living, but by expressing the latent talents and possibilities of his personality, can live, in all senses of the word.

Through organized programs of community and neighborhood recreation, towns are helping the men, women and children of America to find their voices — to set forth in drama art and music and in the hundred forms of play, what it is they have all along been trying to say which could not get itself expressed with in the confines of their daily work.

Musicians, artists, athletes and leaders of promise have been discovered and helped to a larger success through community recreation activities.

But the real aim of such activities is to reach, through mass expression those too shy to star; to give those who love to sing, or act, or dance, but who never could remotely resemble Carusoes or Barrymores or Pavlowas, opportunities to do these things and do them often.

Very soon now our new Director will be here to show us all just how to acquire a real honest-to-goodness community spirit.

ETHEL E. CROSS,
Woman's Committee, Chairman

The New Restaurant

A new place to eat is always a matter of the greatest interest and the attractive quarters of the new MacTage restaurant at the corner of Main street and Punchard avenue and the generous hospitality of the management on Tuesday when hundreds of persons inspected the plant and partook of coffee and cake have already given it a place in the community.

The name MacTage is made from the initials of the three partners Theodore S. Michalls, the business manager, George B. Andrews, the production manager, and A. J. Castarakis, the floor manager, all American citizens. Their trademark is the classic hydria or water carrier which is an emblem of service.

Show windows facing on two streets display fruit and foods chilled on ice. Another window contains an electric griddle and waffle iron and still another bakery products.

The corner store contains the main room of the restaurant, quiet and attractive with its inlaid linoleum floor, panelled walls and booths of gumwood with their tables covered with white linen and comfortably upholstered settles. The second store is shared by the quick lunch counter and the bakeshop which may eventually be moved along into the third store. The top of the lunch counter is of rubber simulating marble, making a surface both sanitary and noiseless. As the customer partakes of his first course, he may be choosing his second from the assortment before him displayed under glass. A series of tanks provides for a frequent replenishing of hot drinks. On one side of the entrance door is the case of bakery products and on the other smokes.

The domain of the pastry cook and chef extends across the rear of the two rooms lighted by five windows and ventilated by an exhaust fan. A huge coal range is supplemented by a gas range for emergencies and the pastry cook has a tiled oven and frying table for his special use. A steam table with two large enclosures and nine small ones provides for keeping food hot as it is served. A small refrigerator also supplements the large ice box in the basement. In the basement is a generous supply of canned goods. the meat block, and a marvelous electric bread slicer which will reduce a loaf to slices varying from sandwich thickness to that of gossamer lace.

Mr. Michaloplos (for convenience now written Michalls) is a native of Greece, coming to this country first in 1906, and to take up his permanent residence in 1911. He attended the public schools in Dover, N. H., and after continuing his education in several well known schools was graduated from Bowdoin College, where he made an excellent record, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1926.

Mr. Castarakis came to the United States in 1906 and became established in business in Dover where he is well known and enjoys the acquaintance of many of the prominent men of that city. He is a Pythian and an Ahepan. He has a son and two daughters, the elder of whom will graduate from the Dover high school in June.

Mr. Andrews, who came to the United States in 1916, has been connected with the lunch and restaurant business since the time that he stepped off the boat. He, also, is an Ahepan. Of his two sisters now in America, the one who is unmarried hopes to join her brother in Andover soon.

The chef, Andre Lyneek, one of the most important persons about the restaurant, comes from Geneva, Switzerland. When only sixteen years of age he started to learn the art of cookery, serving an apprenticeship of three years without pay. For three years, he was at the Metropole in Geneva; two years at the Savoy Palace Hotel in Alexandria, Egypt; one season at the Royal Victoria Hotel at the Bahama Islands; one season at the Mt. Kineo Hotel, Moosehead Lake; five years at the Agramont Golf Club at East Providence, R. I.; a year at the Oak Club, Providence, R. I.; eighteen months at the Narragansett Hotel at Providence, R. I.; two seasons at the Casco Camps at Thompson lake in Maine.

Eugene Vaudreuil, a Frenchman is the baker and has pursued that calling for twenty-six years, being employed for seven years by Friend Brothers in Lowell and for three years by James Jackson of Newbury street, Lawrence. He has also worked in Malden and Newburyport and had a business of his own for seven years.

Miss Mary Hyde of Lawrence, with eight years' experience in that line of work, is forelady in the bakery department.

The waitresses include, Miss Marion Tessier of Lawrence who has worked at the Nashua Country Club, Lido Venice and Clam Shell in Lawrence; Miss Frances Metcalf, who has had experience at the Crawford House and Lincoln Hotel in the mountains and at the Phillips Inn and the Manse in Andover, and Miss Betty Marion of Wilmington, who has worked at the Rainbow in Wilmington and Crystal Lunch in Wakefield.

Service is a la cart as well as with special combinations arranged by M. Lyneek with reference to a balanced meal which pleases both the palate and the pocketbook.

General Marlborough Churchill who spent the summer in France has been visiting his mother Mrs. J. W. Churchill on Morton street.

Lieutenant Albert Cole of the fire department returned to his duties Wednesday. He has been detained for several weeks at his home on Central street by illness.

Miss Anna T. Winters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Winters of 4 Cuba street graduated from the Codman Square hospital in Dorchester Wednesday after a two years' training course. Miss Winters will spend the coming week at home with her parents and will later practice in the Back Bay section of Boston.

Friskins Give Recital in Jordon Hall

Many Andover prople attended the piano recital given by Miss Kate Friskin of the Abbot faculty and her brother James Friskin at Jordan hall on Wednesday evening. Included in the orchestra were Miss Susan Ripley, Mrs. Luther Watson and Miss McLuffee, all of this town.

The Boston Herald of October 27, comments as follows:

Kate and James Friskin gave an interesting concert of two-piano music in Jordan hall last night. The best of it they held to the close of the evening, when they performed a Bach concerto in C major, with string orchestra accompaniment. The allegro movement had unbroken melody in it and rhythmic bounce, the charm of color contrast between pianofortes and strings, and passage work for the solo instruments with real grace and brilliancy about it.

The fugue as well had vigor to bless it, and rhythm to stir the pulse. As for the slow movement, for piano alone — to a person who did not know it it sounded monstrous dull. Mr. and Miss Friskin, too, played it less sympathetically than they did the brilliant movements, to which they brought great energy and dash. The orchestra, its members all from the studio of Marie Nichols, with Miss Nichols herself at its head, played admirably under the direction of Harrison Potter; its help in the largo was missed.

Mr. and Miss Friskin began the concert with a very good performance of Mozart's D minor sonata; to the andante, both by their tone and their judicious tempo, they did special justice. By Brahms's variations on a Haydn theme they did adequately; playing it musically and intelligently, they made an effective way through all the variations but those which cry out for a "virtuoso pair" of pianists, of dazzling technical skill and fiery temperament. If Mr. Rosenthal and Mr. Paderewski could bring themselves to acquire so neat an ensemble as that of Miss Friskin and Mr. Friskin, couldn't they raise the roof with those variations!

The concert-givers last night were nearer home in Bax's "Moy Mell," pleasant music, atmospnere mostly and color, with thrills to spare, it sounded. In Ravel's "La Valse" they reconciled with uncommon insight the sudden, disconcerting flights from the Vienna of Edouard Strauss's period — emphatically not the epoch of Johann himself — to the sophisticated Paris of today. Not for many a day before has this music sounded so plausible.

A large audience showed manifest pleasure.

BABSON DISCUSSES WHOLESALE TRADE AND PASSES ALONG SOME GOOD ADVICE

Wholesaler Must Be Expert Buyer, Natural Banker, Warehouse Man, Good Distributor, An Assembler of Goods and Fully Versed in Technique of Transportation and Shipping

Babson Park, Massachusetts, October 28, 1927. Roger W. Babson in his weekly interview today, discusses the wholesale trade situation. His summary includes reports from the leading cities of the United States and Canada as furnished by the Chambers of Commerce of these cities. He also comments on the conditions confronting wholesalers and passes along some good advice.

Difficulties of Wholesale Business

"A wholesaler reminds me of the old adage, 'Jack of all trades and expert in none.' A wholesaler in order to succeed, must be an expert buyer, a natural banker, a warehouse man, a good distributor, an assembler of goods, and one fully versed in the technique of transporation and shipping. The wholesale business has six or more distinct functions and the man who falls down on any one of these fails. Yet the average wholesaler lumps all of his business together and has no special knowledge of what functions are paying him and what are costing him money. Hence, the first need of most wholesalers is a functional study of their business. I am all the more convinced of this since learning that a net profit of 3% is about the average of the most successful wholesalers and that this — owing to chain stores and increased costs of doing business — is gradually declining.

"Another difficulty facing wholesalers is that they are forced to carry a very great variety of items. Many wholesalers are forced to carry from 10,000 to 15,000 items. Some of my clients in the wholesale business are purchasing from 700 or more different manufacturers. This means that these wholesalers really can not be acquainted with but a small proportion of these goods and certainly cannot give any attention to pushing them. As a result they act merely as order takers and trust more or less to luck and the law of averages as to what they sell. Of course this situation is being remedied. The advice of bankers, the use of business statistics, the service of public accountants and the good work being done by the Department of Commerce all are working in favor of the wholesaler in order to reduce the items carried and the territory covered. This tends to eliminate dead stock, increases turnover, reduces expense and makes it unnecessary for wholesalers to borrow as much from the banks.

"It is interesting to note, however, that after taking these difficulties into consideration and realizing the burden which the wholesalers are obliged to bear, one finds a reasonably satisfactory situation in the wholesale business at the present time. Information obtained from a group of seventy-seven representative Chambers of Commerce, shows fifty-two cities reporting a satisfactory wholesale situation, while twenty cities report the situation as fair and only five cities indicate poor conditions. My study of this latter group shows that these cities are not at all in any one vicinity, but rather, fairly well distributed. This would tend to indicate that on the whole there are no large sections showing poor wholesale conditions.

"The two states which stand out with the most generally satisfactory wholesale trade are Georgia and Texas. Here cotton has been a big help. Among the favorable cities I would specially mention Augusta and Macon, in Georgia; Beaumont and Galveston, Texas; Oklahoma City, Little Rock (Arkansas), Lincoln (Nebraska) Charlotte (North Carolina), Huntington (West Virginia), Norfolk (Virginia), Harrisburg (Pennsylvania), and New Haven (Connecticut). Rochester (New York), although below the 1926 peak, shows up well; while the city of Boston (Massachusetts) reports condiserable improvement. Also improvement is shown in certain cities of Michigan, Ohio, Iowa, Kansas, and Minnesota. From all these reports I would conclude that the wholesale trade is on the up grade.

Necessities Leading Wholesale Lines

"Further, my study of present day wholesale conditions shows that the lines doing the greater business are those which are really necessary for the welfare of the people. For example, I find that foodstuffs, clothing and building materials lead all other lines when a compilation of the reports of these seventy-seven Chambers of Commerce is made. I find twenty-three cities in which food-stuffs are amongst the best selling wholesale lines. Fifteen cities show clothing as one of their more important wholesale items. The building materials are doing well in seventeen cities, thus indicating that building, although on the decline in most sections, is still holding up well in certain districts.

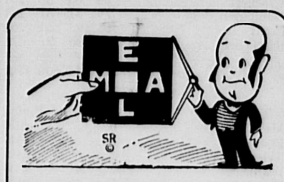

"Although the above-mentioned lines lead the wholesale business, yet there are others which are also doing well. For instance, in Atlanta (Georgia) we find a good furniture market. Boston (Massachusetts) and Shreveport (Louisiana) report a fair business in the wholesale electrical equipment line. Jackson (Michigan) is doing a good business in automotive equipment. These and other similar lines are holding up well in practically all sections of the country.

Unattractive as Investments

"The wholesale business has not been the basis of many flotations. I know of no such companies having bond issues which have been publicly offered and only a few have sold preferred stocks to the public. Almost no strictly wholesale concerns have their securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Many manufacturing stocks and many stocks of concerns doing a retail business are actively dealt in, but both bankers and brokers instinctively keep away from securities of companies doing only a wholesale business. Yet the wholesaler has a definite function to perform and there always must be wholesalers so long as there are small independent retailers. Once when asking a prominent banker why he never offered the securities of a strictly wholesale house, he replied: 'Wholesalers are confronted by two paradoxes. (1) To be a wholesaler one must carry a great many lines and thousands of items, and yet an analysis of their business shows that the fewer lines and items that they carry the more profits they make. (2) To be a wholesaler one must cover a large territory while analysis shows that after this territory expands beyond a certain limited area the law of diminishing returns begins to work.'

"The wholesale business is very vitally connected with general business conditions. While the business of a retailer may contract only 6 per cent during a business depression, the business of a wholesaler may decline 30 to 40 percent. The wholesaler acts as sort of a spring or cushion which must absorb most of the declining business and most of the falling prices. A chart of the wholesale business almost parallels the movement of the Babsonchart, which now registers about normal. Yet every cloud has a silver lining.

A Little Out of the Way But It Pays to Walk

WEST PARISH

Mrs. J. A. Rose of Walpole is visiting relatives in town.

This evening the Newton Trio will give a concert in the Grange hall for the benefit of the vestry fund.

The West Church was represented at the Andover Association, which met at Lowell on Tuesday, by the pastor and Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. George D. Ward, Mrs. John Noyes and Miss Margaret Ward.

The R. P. C. Girl's club met with Miss May Noyes, Lovejoy road, on Monday evening. Monday evening October 31, they will hold a Hallowe'en party at the home of Miss Helen Lewis, Lowell street.

William Smeltzer has entered the employ of the American Woolen Company at Wild Rose Farm. He has moved from Canterbury street to one of the company's houses on Lowell street near Wild Rose Farm.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet with Mrs. George Winslow, Lowell street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. As this is the last meeting before the Harvest supper and sale, it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the West Church will hold a Rummage Sale in the Baptist Church vestry on Saturday, October 29, from ten o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the afternoon. This is for the vestry fund of the West Church.

The Christian Endeavor society met at the home of Grace Lovejoy on Sunday evening, the attendance was good and the next meeting will be at the home of Elmer Peterson, Greenwood road. Miss Mina Noyes will continue the reading of Bruce Barton's, "The Book Nobody Knows."

The West Church treasurer announces a gain of $170 in cash and pledges for the vestry fund. The work on the roof is progressing rapidly and one gets a very good idea of what the building is to be and how well it fills its place as a companion building to the beautiful stone church of which West Parish is so proud.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Boutwell when their daughter, Esther W. was united in marriage to Carl Griffin of Albany, New York, but formerly of Andover and a member of the West Church and Andover Grange. Mr. Griffin is in the florist's business. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin will make their home in Albany after a short wedding trip.

Grange Notes

Andover Grange met on Tuesday evening. The third degree was worked by the Ladies' Degree team. Supper was served by Caterer Weigel at seven o'clock. Seventeen visitors were present. Two pleasant happenings of the evening were the presentation of a check of $100, the proceeds of the "Chicken Pie Supper," to the Grange by the Woman's Club and the Harvest display on the stage, the gift of some of Andover Grangers to the building fund. These were afterwards sold at auction netting a substantial addition to the fund.

Notice was read of the meeting of Essex Pomona Grange at Methuen on November 3, at 10.30 in the morning. Dinner will be served at twelve o'clock yb Methuen Grange. Election of 1928 officers will fill the morning session. The afternoon session will be filled by a discussion of "Apples," their history, how they are produced, marketed and the control of diseases and pests that harass the apple-grower.

Those wishing to take the fifth degree may do so at this meeting.

The State Grange meets in December at the Hotel Statler, Boston.

The next meeting of Andover Grange will be Children's Night. Mrs. Harry Dawson has the meeting in charge and promises a pleasant evening and a good entertainment for all.

Frank Bailey attended the meeting of N. E. M. P. A. at the American House, Boston, Tuesday and Wednesday.

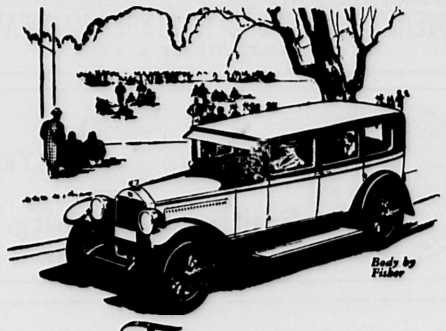

The Woman's club of Andover Grange held the annual meeting and election of officers at Grange hall on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock. The following officers for 1928 were elected, President, Mrs. Edward Urmston; vice president, Mrs. Ira B. Hill; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. E. B. Thornton, assistant secretary, Mrs. Nellie E. Mooar. The report of the treasurer showed a most prosperous year.

WHOLESALE TRADE

The wholesale trade has not become involved with the instalment business. The wholesaler has practically none of the three or four billions of dollars of instalment paper now held by manufacturers and retailers. Moreover, as I have said above, wholesalers have a legitimate economic function. Perhaps as they are reduced in number by economic pressure, those remaining may develop a very profitable business and the time may yet come when the securities of wholesale concerns may be more attractive than those of either manufacturers or retailers."

PLAY SCORELESS TIE

Punchard with Crippled Team Holds Marblehead to a Tie Game. Fumbles Fatal to Local Team's Chances.

The Punchard and Marblehead high school football elevens battled to a scoreless tie on the Balmoral gridiron Saturday afternoon before a crowd of more than 500.

The local outfit had the edge on the visitors from the North Shore, however, only a fumble on the "Headers" 3-yard line preventing a score. On two other occasions the Punchard outfit had worked the ball to Marblehead's 9-yard and 15-yard lines, but the necessary punch for a touchdown failed and each time the ball went to the visitors on downs. Marblehead got as far as Punchard's 25-yard line only once during the game.

Walter Batcheller and George Forsythe bore the brunt of Punchard's attack, while Collyer and Morse were the "Headers" chief ground-gainers.

McDowell, the Marblehead punter, was a big factor in keeping the home boys away from his team's goal line as he booted three kicks that carried 65, 60 and 55-yards on different occasions.

The play during the first period see-sawed between the 30-yard lines. Forsythe scooped up a fumble on Marblehead's 20-yard line to give Punchard a start in the second period. Batcheller made a 10-yard advance and Forsythe picked up a yard. Batcheller carried the ball 6 yards further on the next play. He carried it again and was almost over the line when he fumbled and Captain Grant recovered for the visitors on the 1-yard line to stop Punchard's best chance for a score. McDowell punted out of danger to Punchard's 35-yard line.

Marblehead's only sustained advance came in the third period when they carried the ball by a series of short gains around the Punchard wings to the local's 25-yard line. A stubborn defense here gave Punchard the ball on downs.

In the final quarter a Marblehead fumble was recovered by Gibson at mid-field and the Punchard backs carried the pigskin to the visitors' 9-yard mark but got no further. A little later a short punt again gave the Lovely crew another chance for a score. They carried to the 15-yard line where the visitors took it on downs again. The game ended with the ball in Marblehead's possession on their own 10-yard line.

Camels Lead Procession

The Camels went into the lead in the Shawsheen bowling league by taking four points from the Fatimas and hold the fort by a single point. Pearson rolled 108 and 298 for high triple while Buck hit 109 for high single and a triple of 286.

The Old Golds won three from the Lucky Strikes dropping the second string by 12 pins. Big majorities in the first and third gave them the pinfall by an even half hundred. Curtin was high roller with 100 and 288.

The Barking Dogs and Chesterfields furnished the feature match of the evening. The "Bow-wows" won the first string by 30 pins. The Chesters took the second and third by the same total making a tie for the team total. Two boxes by the bowlers of each team failed to settle the argument. The anchors then battled for the extra point the Chesterfields won it. Keith was high with 100 and 278 and Ripley rolled 103 and 273.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by Wynne Ferguson

ARTICLE No. 1

It is really surprising what simple mistakes often are made by players who think they play a pretty fair game. Here are several examples that the writer noticed in a recent game:

Hearts — K, 6, 3
Clubs — J, 2
Diamonds — K, 7, 6, 3, 2
Spades — J, 10, 8

: Y :
: A B :
: Z :

Hearts — Q, 9, 4
Clubs — A, Q, 7
Diamonds — A, 8
Spades — A, Q, 7, 6, 2

Z dealt, bid one spade, A and Y passed and B bid two hearts. Z bid two spades, all passed and A opened the ten of hearts. Z's proper play, of course, is the king of hearts in dummy. B must either win this trick with the ace or allow the king to hold. If he wins the trick, Z must win the next two heart tricks, for he holds the queen nine of hearts over B's jack. If B should fail to play the ace, Z must win one more trick with the queen of hearts. In either event, therefore, by playing the king of hearts at trick one, Z is sure of two tricks, no matter how B plays. In the actual play, however, Z made a serious mistake. When the ten of hearts was led, he played the trey of hearts from Y's hand and B also played low. Z was thus forced to win the trick with the queen and B now held the ace jack of hearts over Y's king and was, therefore, assured of two tricks.

Z's mistakes in this hand, however, were not over. After winning the first heart trick with the queen, he led a low diamond and won the trick in Y's hand with the king. He now had two possible plays. He could lead the jack of spades or the low club, with the purpose in view of finessing in either case. His proper lead was the jack of spades. If this finesse should lose, he would have a re-entry in Y's hand with the ten of spades. If B should cover with the king of spades, Z should play his ace and thus again have a re-entry with the ten of spades. If B held the king and failed to cover, Y's jack of spades would hold the trick and Z should then lead Y's low club and play the queen from his own hand. If this finesse loses, he will thus have a re-entry with the jack of clubs in Y's hand.

Z, however, thought of none of these facts. He proceeded to lead the jack of clubs from Y's hand and A won the trick with the king. He returned a low heart and B won two heart tricks with the ace jack. B then led a low club which Z was obliged to win with the queen of clubs in his own hand. He now had no way to get Y's hand in the lead except by trumping a club. He trumped with the eight of spades and B over-trumped with the nine. As B originally held the K, 9, 5 of spades, he also made the king of spades so that Y-Z scored only two odd.

On the other hand, if Z had played his finesses correctly he would have scored four odd and game, provided, of course, that he had played the king of hearts at trick one. It is mistakes such as Z made in this hand that lose so many games; and the sad part of it is that they are all so easy to avoid. Learn to think out your plays in advance and select the one that gives you the best chance for game.

Here is another hand that illustrates the value of planning your finesses so that you will get a double chance for game, instead of a single one:

Hearts — J, 7, 6, 2
Clubs — J, 10
Diamonds — none
Spades — 9, 8

Hearts — Q, 9, 8, 5
Clubs — 6, 3
Diamonds — Q
Spades — J

: Y :
: A B :
: Z :

Hearts — K, 10
Clubs — K, 8, 7
Diamonds — 8
Spades — K, 6

Hearts — none
Clubs — A, Q, 9, 5, 4
Diamonds — none
Spades — A, Q, 10

As is playing the hand, spades are trumps and Y's hand is in the lead. He has two possible finesses, one in clubs and one in spades. If he leads the jack of clubs, he is sure of the balance of the tricks for if B covers with the king, Z will play his ace and put Y's hand again in the lead with the ten of clubs. He can then finesse the spades. If B doesn't cover the jack of clubs, Z should then play the low spade and finesse the queen. He should then play first the ace of clubs and then a small club and trump in Y's hand. He can then trump a heart, lead the ace of spades and his clubs are good. Played in either of these ways, Y-Z can win all of the tricks.

Suppose, however, that Z at trick one takes the spade finesse before the club finesse. It will win, of course, but how can he get Y's hand in again to make the club finesse? He would thus have to lose a club trick and win one less trick than if he had first taken the club finesse.

There are numberless hands where these principles should be applied, so study them carefully and if you thoroughly understand them you will win many a game and rubber that you could not win otherwise.
